Programme overview

To be an effective consultant, you need skills, processes and tools that frame your technical and specialist expertise so you can successfully deliver project outcomes and work with others. Join other experts to learn how to analyse organisational problems and develop plans for improvement.

This programme will enable you to identify business problems, propose solutions, achieve desired outcomes, establish project goals, manage client expectations and build strong client relationships.

Who is the programme for?

The programme is designed for professionals and subject matter specialists who want to apply their expertise to help organisations analyse business problems, identify solutions and achieve them.

It is also designed for individuals looking to leverage their skills and transition to an independent career. Experienced consulting practitioners who wish to improve or refresh their basic skills, insights and approaches are also welcome.

Focus and structure

This programme is informal, stimulating and encourages immediate application of the learning. It provides fresh insights into effective approaches and covers proven consulting tools and techniques, including aspects of remote working, which enhance competence and build confidence.

The structure and design of this programme is based on the proprietary CONSULT process, a five-stage model for project delivery. The process covers all aspects of project delivery including situation appraisal, client relationships, influencing the client, working in teams, defining terms of reference, managing projects, problem solving, developing recommendations, managing change and reporting to the client.

As much opportunity as possible is provided for you to apply and develop your individual consulting skills using a case study based on a real-life consulting assignment and inter-module activities. You will explore the project delivery process which enables you to refine and develop your thought processes as well as apply and receive feedback on your consulting skills.
